Gala Leap Year Prom Set Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night is the night when the men of Brigham Young University will honor each his own. Instead of selecting a queen to whom they will pay homage and to whom they will give their attentions, the men on the campus will honor their own queens at the Junior Prom.

The year's biggest and best social event will begin at 9 p.m., when the early prom-goers will be taken through the receiving line. Following the precedent set last year, the Prom will be held off-campus at the Provo Stake recreation center, 9 E. and 1 S.

General Chairman

Dick Huish, Berkeley, Calif., has served as general chairman of what should prove to be the most successful Prom in the school's history.

Themed "Old Vienna," the Prom committee has arranged for the top-flight orchestra of Stewart Grow to provide the music for the dance. John McCabe, San Carlos, Calif., junior class prexy, directed the committee that brought the Salt Lake trumpeter to the Prom.

Gene Oveson, Tooele, has obtained the favors, which are alone worth the price of admission. Jack Clawson, Seattle, Wash., produced the asembly presented in the fieldhouse this morning.

Tickets Nearly Gone

Handling the sale of tickets was Don Christenson, Orem. There are few tickets available, and it is unlikely that there will be any left for sale at the dance. The booth in the lobby of the Joseph Smith building will have a few tickets for sale today and tomorrow. Traveling salesmen will also have a limited number that may be purchased.

Checking of wraps has been arranged to insure a minimum of waiting by those attending the Prom. Greeting arrivals at the main entrance will be a doorman to give assistance in any way that he can.

Post-Prom Parties

Most of the men's social units on campus have arranged post-prom parties. Members should check with their various organizations concerning the location of these affairs.

Governor and Mrs. J. Bracken Lee are expected to be present to greet prom-goers in the receiving line from 9 to 9:30 p.m. Also in the line will be members of the General Authorities of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

ROTC Asks Pledges For Blood

Aiming for a quota of 1500 pints of blood, the Brigham Young University ROTC unit is now seeking student pledges.

According to Eugene Lyons, Boise, general chairman of the drive, boxes for the collection of pledges have been set up in the Science bldg., the library, and in the Joseph Smith lobby. A member of the Arnold Air Society will be stationed in the Smith lobby to answer questions and receive completed pledge cards.

Students are encouraged to submit their completed pledges as soon as possible so that the scheduling committee can begin scheduling hours for actual donations. Students under 21 are requested to retain their signed consent cards until the time of the donation.

AFROTC officials have suggested Monday as a tentative deadline for pledging, but they stressed the fact that donors may pledge until the Blood Mobile arrives on or near March 17.

NEW RULES POSTED FOR SONGFEST

New rules for the annual AWS songfest which is scheduled for April 25 have been announced by the AWS officers and council members.

Purpose of the new rules is to give every unit an equal chance to win the cup. 1—80 per cent of each unit must participate. 2—the original song must be written by a unit member who has been active during the 1951-52 school year. 3—song practices will not begin before April 1.

Shirley Allen will be the AWS representative, but the songfest chairman has not yet been chosen.

General Wedemeyer Will Speak At Special Assembly Tomorrow

General Albert C. Wedemeyer, top-level strategist for the Army during World War II, will address a special assembly Friday at 11 a.m. in the Brigham Young University fieldhouse.

Although Friday is a pre-registration day at BYU, all registration activity will be temporarily stopped to enable all faculty members and students to attend. The assembly will be open to townspeople, and members of Provo civic clubs have been invited to hear the popular speaker.

Now retired from the army, Gen. Wedemeyer is one of the most sought-after lecturers in the nation, and is expected to give an expert's view of world strategy.

He helped plan the invasion of Europe and won a Distinguished Service Medal for "profound strategical judgment." Earlier, he helped plan strategy in the Mediterranean campaign.

From 1944 to 1946 he commanded the China theater and concurrently served as chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. In 1947, with the rank of Ambassador, he made a special study of the situation in China and Korea for President Truman.

Spring and Summer Registrants May Enroll in ROTC Program

New students may enroll in the ROTC program both spring and summer quarters, according to Lt. Col. Jesse E. Stay, Professor of Air Science and Tactics at the BYU AFROTC unit.

Special permission from the PAS & T is necessary where students have not previously accepted an opportunity to enroll either here or at any other school and now desire to enter ROTC classes for the first time.

Summer ROTC

Summer quarter enrollees must attend both sessions of summer school and must also carry a full academic load of twelve units. Students will be enrolled only at the beginning of the first session of summer term, Colonel Stay announced.

Sophomores enrolling now will have to take the last year of the basic course and the first year of the advanced course during their junior year.

Graduate Work

Juniors must double up in their senior year and complete advanced training as a graduate student. Juniors will be accepted only if their grades indicate they will be eligible to do graduate work.

"Students should not enroll in the ROTC program and accept deferment from the draft unless they honestly intend to complete training, accept a commission and serve as an officer in the Air Force if called," Colonel Stay stated. "Our only purpose in deferring ROTC cadets is to allow them to serve thir country to better advantage after completing their college education."

AUTHOR REVIEWS OWN BOOK ON SUNDAY

"Branches Over the Wall," recent book by Ora Pate Stewart, will be reviewed by the author Sunday morning in the Joseph Smith building.

The noted authoress and lecturer will speak during Campus Branch Sunday School activities, in the class usually taught by Darrell Call. Mrs. Stewart will also speak Sunday at a fireside concerning her written works. Saxon social unit will sponsor the evening talk. The public is invited to attend.

Prom Intermission Will Feature Noted Hollywood Comedian

Wendell Noble, one of southern California's outstanding radio and television personalities, will present a 20-minute special intermission show at the Junior Prom.

A native of Mesa, Ariz., Mr. Noble is a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He received his first break in radio in Phoenix, where he produced several of his own shows. On some programs he would take the part of five different characters.

Assistant Producer

During the war, Mr. Noble assisted with the production of the Gene Autry show, which originated from Phoenix.

Leaving Arizona after the war, he accepted a position in radio in Los Angeles. Teaming with Steve Allen, he helped produce the "Smile Time" show over the Mutual Network for two years. It was at this point in his career that he decided against comedy, and began presenting a series of news commentaries under the sponsorship of Henry J. Kaiser, Sr.

Celebrities

While announcing this series, he became personally acquainted with such national leaders as Senators Robert Taft, Wayne Morse and Styles Bridges, Secretary of Interior Krug, and many others.

Shortly after this, he went back into the acting field, and starred as a man of many voices on the Buster Brown show, the Red Ryder show, and the Great Gildersleeve. He spent one summer as soloist with Buzz Adlam's orchestra on ABC, and later did a stint on Mutual as "The Singing Disc-Jockey."

His present "Tapestries of Life" show has "out-Hoopered" many network shows being aired at the same time.

He has narrated two Church films, is active in church work in southern California, leads his stake choir and chorus, and is in his stake mutual superintendency.

WENDELL NOBLE . . . Will highlight prom.

Speech Department Lists Performance Of 'Little Minister'

Sir James M. Barrie's classic, "The Little Minister," will be presented by the speech department for five nights next week in College Hall. Performances will be given Tuesday through Saturday at 8:15.

Tickets are now on sale at the College Hall ticket office on lower campus. Students will be admitted on activity cards and public admission is 75 cents. All seats are reserved and must be picked up at least 24 hours before the performance.

The story of the play concerns a young minister sent to a parish in a small Scottish village. Upon arrival he hears of the periodic revolts of the weavers against their villainous master, Lord Rintoul, and of the gypsy witch who seems to aid the weavers in their actions. When the "witch" turns out to be a lovely young girl, complications ensue.

Playing the roles of Gavin, the little minister, and Babbie, the gypsy girl, are Gail Saltus, Inglewood, and Geneva Call, Las Vegas, Nev.

Real Devotionals Again ...

It has taken nearly two quarters to get around to the realization that devotionals should be just that — DEVOTIONAL. Had devotionals been created as sounding boards for senators, lecture platforms for professional philosophers or classrooms for the teaching of Political Science, they never would have been termed devotionals in the first place.

If the last few devotional exercises are an indication of what is to come, those responsible for the change should be commended. It is time our devotionals became so, in practice as well as in theory.

Good Example This Week

Last Tuesday's devotional is an excellent example of what devotionals were meant to be. Perhaps it would be well to analyze some of the factors which made that devotional a true devotional.

Many students chose the Y rather than other universities because of their membership in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. These students are most satisfied when the speaker is an apostle of the Lord. For most students, the chance to get advice straight from the lips of a Prophet of God is not a common occurrence. This is reason enough to invite the General Authorities to speak to the studentbody more often!

The music, as always, was excellent and added much to setting the mood for an hour of devotion. The addition of a closing song is noteworthy. The feeling of unity fostered in the audience and the very fact that a closing song is traditional in our church meetings is enough to warrant its place in the Tuesday exercises.

Lack of Applause is Pleasing

Finally, the thing that pleased upperclassmen who remember devotionals from a year or two ago, was that there was no applause when Apostle Romney ended his speech. Tuesday devotionals serve a function of mid-week church services and clapping is as out of place there as in a Sabbath meeting. The spirit at our devotionals should always be such that there would never be any need to clap for "politeness'" sake. A good old-fashioned "Amen" is the best way to end a sermon anyway.

Our devotionals are potentially the greatest source of inspiration here at the Y. Let's all work to make them so.—Lu Markham.

Letter to the Editor

Pat on the Back, No Less ...

Dear Editor:

We thought that you and your readers would like to know of a very unusual condition here on campus. This is the establishment known as the Joseph Smith Cafeteria. There are several points that deserve mention and we will enumerate them.

1. The problem of long lines at noon has been effectively solved to a great extent.
2. The trays, dishes and utensils are clean.
3. All of the ladies who serve us are cheerful, courteous and efficient.
4. The menus are balanced.
5. The food is cooked in a way that is pleasing to the majority of customers.
6. We enjoy each other's company while eating, and we find the cafeteria a pleasant and convenient place to visit after eating.
7. The men who clean the trays and dishes are friendly and efficient.

There is really nothing for a fair-minded person to gripe about at the Joseph Smith Cafeteria. A pat on the back to the management, employees and the customers who have united to make the Joseph Smith Cafeteria a good place to eat.

Sincerely yours,

Norman F. Hammer	Keith Smith	Ralph Crystal
Eugene Lyons	Wayne Tenney	Robert T. Divett
Leroy Gunnell	Robert Gunnell	T. V. Thomas

Reel Dope:

Excuses for not attending church were adapted to "Why I Don't Attend the Movies" by Kansas University journalists, and the results were ironically close to the reasons for not going to church. Here are the rationalizations:

1. The manager of the theater has never asked me to go.
2. There is no special program for the college students.
3. It's not run like the theater back home.
4. Every time I go they ask me for money.
5. I went so regularly back home that I don't need to go now.
6. The show lasts too long. I can't sit still for two hours.
7. I don't like a lot of the people I meet there.
8. I don't always agree with the theater's choice of shows.
9. The audience doesn't seem to be friendly enough.
10. The shows are always in the evenings and on weekends, and that is the only time I have for study.—Joe Taylor.

MYRON WALKER
... New Business Manager.

Myron Walker Now Holds Purse Strings

by Joy Webb

Capable and steady hands hold the purse strings of the studentbody; the hands of 23-year-old Myron Walker, the new business manager.

The new executive, who comes from American Fork, recently replaced Mark Money, who traded the job for the life of a soldier. Mr. Walker is a senior in the College of Commerce and is majoring in marketing.

Blue Key

Mr. Walker is a Brigadier, a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, and Blue Key. He was also an Intercollegiate Knight for two years, one of those years he was treasurer of the BYU chapter. He is a senior class representative on the legislative council.

Being a leader is not new to Mr. Walker, he returned to BYU this fall after filling a two-year mission in California. There he was supervising Elder of two districts and helped to organize the Long Beach district.

Myron attended the 'Y' three years prior to his mission and says, "The BYU has always been close to my heart. I think it is 'the place' for young Latter-day Saints to be."

Hm-m-m

Six feet two inches tall, brown hair, hazel eyes, clean-cut profile, and quiet manners characterize his appearance. His pet peeve is conceited people.

To his fellow students Mr. Walker says, "the 'Y' is known far and wide as the friendly school. But our friends from the 'U' and the 'AC' say, you can find more friendliness on their campuses than here, and I am afraid that there is a lot of truth in it.

Back Into 'Sombre World' ...

Prom-Goers of Yesteryear Were Carried Away—!

Editor's Note: The following is an account of the 1921 Junior Prom. The article appeared in the White and Blue, student newspaper, edited by Ernest L. Wilkinson.

The annual Junior Promenade of the B.Y.U. was held in the Ladies Gym of Friday last, with wonderful success. It was said by many to be the finest in years, especially in the way of decorations and accessories.

Happiness was the keynote expressed in the very unique and original decorations. A little latticed summerhouse partially covered with climbing roses and vines occupied the center of the floor. This held a pool of clear water, banked by ferns and flowers, from one side of which a big brown eyed cupie doll watched the fishes swimming among the water flowers and shells, while birds fluttered and circled above the pool. . . . Garlands ferns and bouquets of roses and doffadils were used to advantage in various places. Shaded blue lights completed the scheme and gave to all a misty, blue haze as of the dawning of a new bright day or the approaching dusk of evening upon a veritable fairyland of spring and flowers.

The gowns to say the least were exquisitely beautiful each showing to best advantage the sparkle of brown eyes or the twinkle of blue, the fluffiness of fair hair or the glossiness of dark. However the gallant ones were equally pleasing to behold, especially the Juniors and other men in their full dress suits.

Perhaps never before was a finer evening had among those who danced and made merry. Even the patrons and chaperons seemed carried away by the mystiful charm of the scene. But it all came to an end, and that altogether too soon! The last strains of the "Bluebird Waltz" floated away and the dreams and charmed ones went out once more into the sombre world of reality.

Little Session With a Big Man

by Cal Pratt

I appreciate President Wilkinson!

Yes, sir, that man amazes me. He has won me over by his fairness, his directness and above all, his love for this school and its destiny.

Most of the people who look on and gripe, like me, would do well to try just one day to keep pace with a man who spends more energy than he appears to contain in doing his work well.

I received a summons to his office the other day to give an account of some of the things I have ventured to say in this column. When I got there, I joined an impressive list of waiters outside his office, among whom were three of my present instructors. By some quirk of fate, I was ushered in ahead of the others and had a little session with a big man.

He congratulated me on things I have written that I didn't think he had bothered to read. Then he asked me if I knew anything that needed improvement around the school (as my column would often indicate). I told him a few of the things that had come to my ears, whereupon he gave me direct assurances that they had been, were being, or would be looked into. Then, with a smile, he shook my hand and made me feel grateful for having spent a few moments with him.

I have not agreed with the president in the past about compulsory devotional attendance, about the appropriateness of some devotional speakers, and one or two other things that have long-since faded because of their insignificance, but today I stand squarely behind him and urge any bored readers that may scan this column to do likewise.

Tuesday, Elder Marion G. Romney, with the voice and vitality of a true apostle of the Lord, said, "This school will someday be the light of the educational world."

I believe this, and I believe it is the misison of President Wilkinson to make it so.

That's why I appreciate President Wilkinson, and why I have decided to quit griping until I can match his vigor and determination.

Figures Don't Lie ...

Y's Growth Near High For Utah's Colleges

by Margaret Rankers

With a present enrollment of 5,200 students, and an expected cumulative enrollment this year of 6,500 students, Brigham Young University attendance will equal and possibly exceed that of any other university in the state.

In a recent talk President Ernest L. Wilkinson stated that with the organization of the proposed School of Engineering Science next fall and the construction of a new Family Life building, the university would be the largest in the state.

With the 5,900 students enrolled at BYU so far this year, every state in the union is represented except New Hampshire. A scholarship is being offered to any LDS student from New Hampshire desiring to attend the university. Ninety-seven per cent of the studentbody is composed of members of the Latter-day Saints church; two per cent are members of other churches; and one per cent have not declared their affiliation with any church. At this time the studentbody consists of 59 per cent boys and 41 per cent girls, totalling over 2,100 girls on campus of which 2,000 are LDS.

Further growth is evidenced by the fact that just six years ago 40 per cent of the studentbody came from Utah county. Today only 26 per cent come from Utah outside of Utah county, and the remainder of nearly 49 per cent of the total enrollment is from out of Utah. The largest increase during last year in Utah came from Salt Lake and Weber counties.

East Provo Champs

Of the 191 stakes in the LDS church, 188 are represented on the campus. The largest representation is from East Provo Stake with 290 students enrolled. The largest representation outside of Utah is the Moapa Stake, in and around Las Vegas, Nev., with a total of 55 students. Based on the density of LDS population, excepting Utah county, the largest per capita enrollment of students is from Cassia Stake in Idaho. This stake includes Oakley, Ida., and Grouse Creek ward in Box Elder county. One of the smallest stakes in the church, with a total membership of 1429, there are 23 students presently enrolled at BYU from this stake. President Wilkinson stated if the rest of the Church supported the school as much as Cassia Stake, there would be a studentbody of over 16,000 students.

Leaps and Bounds

In general, there has been an over-all increase in enrollment by states. Six years ago there were 34 students from the state of Washington, today there are 84, representing an increase of over 150 per cent; Arizona, 243 at the present time compared with 132 six years ago; California six years ago had 256 students enrolled, this year there are over 525, one-half of whom are freshmen. An enrollment of at least the same with tremendous increase is expected next year. The only decrease in enrollment was in Utah county.

With the initiation of the AFROTC on campus, over 1,200 men enrolled, making it the largest in the state. With the cooperation of the music department, this unit has probably the largest band of any ROTC unit in the country.

Richard Cook Gets Honor Council Post

Richard Cook, a senior from American Fork, has been appointed to the honor council bringing the Honor Council membership to the prescribed eleven members.

Mr. Cook was assigned to the publications committee where he will work with Joanna Hobbs.

Other members of the council and the committees upon which they serve are: Hal Connell, Washington, D. C., and Carol Clark, Provo, posters; John Woodward, Seattle, Wash., and Anna Julia Hoyt, Nephi, speech; Jack Bowen, Mesa, Ariz., and Noreen Nelson, Phoenix, Ariz., orientation, and Douglas Bunker, Las Vegas, Nev., and Larry Whetten, Grand Junction, Colo., faculty coordination.

The Honor Council is working on a large scale plan to improve the honor system at Brigham Young University. A plan of action has been submitted to President Wilkinson by the faculty coordination committee, and upon its approval by the president and presentation to the faculty, some tangible action is expected.

Provo Lions Offer Y Scholarships To Local Schools

Provo Lions club has offered two scholarships of $100 each to Brigham Young University, one for a student from Provo high school and for a Brigham Young high school student.

The scholarships will be awarded annually on the basis of scholarship, character, need and community activity. Either a boy or a girl will be eligible for the award. The Lions club scholarship committee, together with the scholarship committee from each high school will select the student to receive the scholarship.

The Lions club has also made an appropriation toward the expenses of Fletcher Hicks, BYU student who is in Los Angeles to obtain a guide dog.

All Campus Groups Asked to Follow Scheduling Rules

Scheduling rules for all campus organizations wishing to use campus facilities were recently released by the coordinator's office. Approval for social functions, meetings, rehearsals, or any use of university facilities must be obtained from the student coordinator's office. Scheduling of that particular space is handled in the Buildings and Grounds office, room 30 North bldg.

Spring quarter scheduling began Monday. The following rules are for those who have not yet scheduled their rooms.

Rules Listed

1. After receiving approval from the coordinator, take the card to the scheduling office, where a scheduling card for the event must be filled out. Scheduling must be done in person, not by telephone or letter.

2. The use of university facilities must be scheduled at least 24 hours in advance. Buildings and Grounds should be notified if use of the scheduled space is cancelled.

3. Decoration plans are to be approved 24 hours before decorating begins. Blanks are obtainable at the scheduling office.

4. Refreshments may be served only in the Joseph Smith ballroom, banquet hall, club room, commons, and social hall ballroom.

Not Available

5. The following are not available for meetings of students organizations:
The Joseph Smith library
The Heber J. Grant library

Alumni Hear Elder Benson Cite Three-Fold Purposes of BYU

Elder Ezra Taft Benson of the Council of the Twelve was the featured speaker at Thursday night's alumni association banquet which was attended by more than 500 alumni members from Utah county.

"It is the purpose of Brigham Young University to combine secular learning and spiritual development, neither of which is perfect without the other," said Elder Benson.

"The objective of the school, as I see it is three-fold," continued Elder Benson. "It's primary objective is to help build good Latter-day Saints who carry a testimony of the faith. Secondly, it is to teach them the fundamental concepts necessary to good citizenship, a love for the constitution, and a love of the principles of freedom. And the third objective is to train them in honorable vocations."

He further stated that BYU should build the confidence of the entire membership of the church in its leadership. The school is committed to missionary work, and it is a major obligation to build up Zion and make BYU democratic.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson outlined the growth of the school in recent years, and paid tribute to the leaders in the Utah county stakes who aided BYU in its early stages.

Cleon Skousen, executive secretary of the alumni association, was master of ceremonies.

YIPPEEE! I FINALLY got a date for the Junior Prom!

Not unusual? . . . Gad, man, you ought to see her. She has ears like little shells—full of powder. And she's so near-sighted she has to count elephants in her sleep . . . but I like these girls with big, thick glasses. You know, the ones with lenses like the bottom of pop bottles. All you have to do is breathe on them and they don't know what they're doing.

She took only five minutes the other morning to focus her eyes and comment on the new pair of LaJolla flannel slacks I had just purchased from the spring array at Clark's, the Man's Shop.

That was the morning I asked her for a date to the prom. She just stood there, a frustrated little girl. I know she's frustrated because she once sent her picture to a lonely hearts club—and they sent it back (said they weren't that lonely). She said she would be delighted to accompany me to the prom (frankly the only date I think she ever expected was the one on her tombstone).

I told her there was only one little hitch to the whole thing . . . I didn't have a tux. She promptly scurried to Clark's and, taking advantage of their last minute tux selection, picking out a beautiful evening-suit for me. The boys at Clark's, being good salesmen also outfitted her with tux shirts, a tie, studs, socks, handkerchief, and all the rest.

Yes, with Pamela it was love at second sight. The first sight I didn't know she had money.

* * * * * *

Pamela is now Clark's best clothing account, and I'm slowly regaining my stature as the best dressed man on the campus thanks to her.

I'll never forget the way she presented me with the new tuxedo. She handed it to me, smiling, and then threw me the rose in her hair. I caught it, and threw her hair right back. (At this point it might be well to mention that if someone doesn't go into Clark's and admit reading this, then I'm through—and you won't have anyone to steal gags from in the future . . . B.H.

* * * * * *

I guess Pamela could have lots of chances to get married. It's just that she doesn't like to take chances. Besides, there are plenty of girls who don't want to get married. I know, I've asked them.

But we have digressed.

The important thing is that I've got a date to the Prom and I've plugged Clark's the normal amount of times.

* * * * * *

The only other problem beseting me now is how to sneak the two of us into the Prom. I think best in the morning, so I guess I will have to wait until tomorrow to figure this sticker out. There's nothing like a cold-shower in the morning to make a man think straight. I jump up at the break of dawn and stand under and ice cold shower for 20 minutes—then I close my umbrella and go back to sleep again.

Peace, it's wonderful.

New Social Blood ...

Origin of Cami Los Reflects Ideals of New Girls' Unit

by Margaret Rankers

"Not for personal glory, but for the good of all, we work as a unit," is the creed of one of the newest girls' social units on campus, Cami Los (pronounced Caw-mi Los).

The unit name was derived from the beginning letters of flowers and each letter represents an attribute of the ideal girl. The ideals on which the unit is founded are: humility, lasting friendship, love, truthfulness, purity, and faithfulness. Members pledge to uphold the standards set by the Brigham Young University, to be friendly, truthful, and pure in heart, spirit, and body. The colors selected by the group are pink and silver.

Organizers

Officers of Cami Los are: Barbara Nicholson, Provo, president; Carol Dunford, Provo, vice president; Darlene Bassetti, Phoenix, Ariz., secretary and historian; Shirlene Melton, Yucaipa, Calif., treasurer; Ruth Christianson, Provo, song leader; Barbara Munroe, Provo, social chairman; Barbara Goates, South Gate, Calif., publicity; Carol Beckstrand, American Fork, chaplain; and Myrle Smith, Salt Lake City, sergeant-at-arms.

Parties Planned

Social plans in the offing include a post-prom party, a slumber party and an exchange party with the Athenians. Plans for the dinner dance are under the direction of Audrey Earnshaw, Inglewood, Calif. A sketch of the proposed unit pin was presented at the last meeting. These should be available next month.

Student advisers who helped organize the group were: Vonda Christensen, Huntington; Carole Clark, Provo; Sue Nelson, Mercer Island, Wash.; and Lela Wing, Raymond, Alberta, Can.

First Members

Charter members are: Carol Beckstrand, Joyce Bramwell, Darlene Bassetti, Carlene Carter, Ruth Christiansen, Marbra Coles, Carol Dunford, Audrey Earnshaw, Barbara Goates, Collette Green, Deanne Jacobsen, JoAnn Jameson, Glenna Jones, Marcia King, Nina Leishman, LaRue Madsen, Shirlene Melton, Barbara Munroe, Suzanne Narkaus, Barbara Nicholson, Virginia Nielson, Carol Obert, Rhea Pope, Shari Simmons, Myrle Smith, Joan Taylor, and Ruth Wilde.

Prizes are in Order ...

Mardi Gras Time Calls for Gay Costumes

It's Mardi Gras time—or it will be, March 3 in the Joseph Smith ballroom.

Costumes will be the order of the evening carnival, and prizes will be given to those wearing the most beautiful, the most original, the most grotesque and the most inexpensive.

Spanish and French clubs, sponsors of the annual ball, have extended invitations to all language students and others who may wish to attend. Tickets are 35 cents per person and are on sale from Curtis Wynder and Aron Brown, presidents of the language class representatives. Tickets available are limited because of space, and should be purchased now, according to representatives of the Mardi Gras.

Free masks for the event will be given to anyone desiring them for the spring dance upon presentation of tickets at a special booth in the lobby of the Joseph Smith building, today and Monday.

Slated from 7:30 till 10:30 p.m., music will be furnished by Wes Barry's orchestra. Extension of dorm hours until 11:00 has been arranged.

Featured at the dance will be varieties of Latin American and French dances and music.

Committees handling advertising, costumes, programs, tickets, decorations and refreshments are headed by club presidents and members Deon Nielsen, Joe Christensen, Dixon Anderson, Beverly Bird, Joan Hebertson, Margarita Obregon, Ken Perry, Gwen Judd, Joyce Dustin, Collette Green and Bob Brown. These people are requested to attend a report meeting today at 5 p.m., 210 Smith bldg.

Out of Ordinary . . .

Little Accessories Sometimes Transform Dress or Gown

by Jacquie Campbell

Girls, have you ever given thought to the accessories that you put with your favorite formals; those little things that give your basic dress an extra 'something;' the things that take your gown out of the ordinary; things like flowers, jewelry, shoes?

Beautiful Accessories

Pictured above is just one idea of a well-chosen ensemble to complement several gowns. The rose is pink velvet and the stole is pink silk net. Think how they would look against a black velvet, full-skirted formal. Add the white gloves and pearls and you can step into the pages of Vogue.

Put the white and gold brocade pumps with a bright green silk shantung 'after-five' dress, put the rose at the waist, add pearl chandelier earrings, white shortie gloves and voila! a beautiful costume.

Versatile

Or try the pumps and long gloves with a light yellow short formal of faille, cut on princess lines; add long earrings of rhinestone and a matching barrette in your hair and there you are!

These are just a few examples of the things that can be done with the right accessories and your favorite formal.

Ama Phi Meeting Will Discuss Blood Campaign

A business meeting will be held tonight at 6:30 in room 230 Smith building. Ama Phi's participation in the Blood Drive on campus will be discussed, and Shirlene Reynolds will give a report on the meeting held on Saturday in connection with the drive.

Plans for the slumber party are getting well under way and will be discussed further tonight.

ALCYONE

Plans for the after-prom party to be held in the banquet hall with the Athenians will be discussed Thursday at 4:30, 130 J. S. building.

Final draft of the constitution will be presented for approval under committee chairman Doni De Haan.

This will be the last chance to pay dues. Fifty cents per day will be charged for late dues.

VIKING

Viking and Cami Los social units held an exchange party last week at the Provo Ladies' club.

Gary Jenkins and Barbara Munroe were chairmen of the event.

The Vikings were the first unit to hold an exchange with the new girls' unit.

Vikes extend congratulations to their gladiators: John Jeppson, Jerry Ensign and Reed Davis, who won their respective events in the AMS smokeless smoker.

Sweetheart of LDS for 1952 Crowned at Friday Night Ball

Maralyn Walsh, Farmington, was crowned Sweetheart of Lambda Delta Sigma for 1952 at the fraternity's annual Sweetheart Ball Friday evening.

Miss Walsh was crowned by Howard Graves, executive adviser of the fraternity, during intermission activities. Helen Bushman, Snowflake, Ariz., and Leora Sabin, Salem, were named as attendants.

Other features of the intermission program were songs by the newly organized quartet of Gamma chapter and by a ladies' double quartet from the University of Utah, presentation of special guests, and awarding of the fraternity's "Dating and Mating" cup to Delta chapter for having the highest percentage of men escorting Lambda Delta Sigma girls to the dance. Ex-president Dan Brown and new president Darrell Judd accepted for the chapter.

Miss Bushman is a sophomore majoring in physical education with a speech-English minor.

She has been a member of Omega chapter of the fraternity for four quarters, and is now girls' executive athletic manager.

Miss Sabin is a freshman; this is her first quarter in Tau chapter of Lambda Delta Sigma.

General chairma nof the Sweetheart Ball was Delbert Armstrong, assisted by Carma Willardson, decorations; Carol Christensen, intermission; Juanita Heflin, programs; and Larene Ball and Marilyn Thompson, refreshments.

Activity Underway In Women's Sports

Women's intramural activities at Brigham Young are currently underway with basketball games scheduled through the week, according to the physical education department.

Arizona Cougar Queens, independents, and Beta Pi took volleyball championships for the independent and social unit teams, respectively, completing fall quarter activities.

Bowling honors went to Fidelas, and the ping pong laurels were taken by Lynn Bates, singles, and Carmen Bitter and Julia Carver, doubles crowns.

Basketball has the intramurals spot presently. The Q.T.'s, the Rennids, and the Friendly Six lead in the independent group, while Omega, Fidelas and Beta Pi are making strong bids for recognition.

Californians Complain

With the temperature dropping to zero these past several mornings, the California club has considered installing smudge pots along the campus walks. Would make them feel at home, they say.

THAT YOUR ARM, JERRY?—Joe Richey cuts loose with a push shot against the Lobos as Romney (12) looks on.

Montana Grizzlies Seek Third Spot Against Last Place Lobos

Skyline basketball winds up its next-to-last week of competition this Saturday night as eight squads see action.

The week's schedule began Monday night with a non-conference tilt featuring Utah State at Montana State headquarters. Montana State has previously played two other Skyline teams this season and are leading the Rocky Mountain conference. The road trip for the Utah Staters will be in preparation for the Utah-Utah State go Saturday in Logan.

Grizzlies Tackle Lobos

Montana's up-and-coming Grizzlies will take to the road and appear in Albuquerque for a shot at the Lobos. These two teams are both new comers to the Skyline circuit this season. Montana, having played the last five games on their home court will be striving to stay in the win column and thereby tie with Utah and Utah State for third, fourth and fifth places in the conference. New Mexico had a disasterous road trip last week when Utah and BYU severely tromped them. These defeats brought their record down to a one and twelve tally. Going into the duel, Montana has a record of six and five.

Friday night slates one conference tilt and one non-conference bout, both held on the eastern side of the mountains. BYU will journey to Fort Collins to tangle with the Rams in the first tilt of their two-game eastern swing. The Cats will be fighting to stay in second place and should not have too much trouble in doing so, since their nearest competitor is two games behind. The Y's record stands at eight and three.

Three Conference Tilts

Saturday night will top off the week's casaba activities with four games on tab. One of them is a non-conference go between New Mexico and New Mexico A&M on the latter's home court.

Two tough and exciting contests will hold the sports spotlight for Utah fans. Utah State, the only team t obeat Wyoming this year in loop competition, will play host to the Utah Redskins. This game is always a very speculative affair, since the Utags are plenty tough on their home court. However, Utah has not measured up to most preseason predictions, since the Utes have dropped five of their twelve conference bouts. This will be the last home game for the Farmers.

Cougars Leave Lair for Games Against Slumping Rams and Potent Cowboys

by Dan Clay

Tomorrow night at Fort Collins, the Brigham Young University Cougars open their do or die invasion of the eastern slope. Saturday night, the men of Watts' travel to Laramie for 'the' game of the trip.

To date, the Cats have done quite well on the road with victories over Denver, Montana, and New Mexico surrounding a flu-inspired loss to the Utah State Farmers at Logan.

Against the Rams tomorrow, the Cougars will be facing a fast slumping crew, but one that a case of hot fingers, on the home court, can do wonders for. The Rams are currently in seventh place in the Skyline standing, with no chance of raising or lowering their lowly position.

Cats Play "Must" Game

When the Pumas tangle with Wyoming Saturday, the conference championship can be decided if the Pokes continue their home court winning ways. A win for the Cowboys is the crown for the Cowboys.

However, a BYU win parlayed with a victory over Colorado A&M would give new life to the defending Skyline champions. Even with this sweep, the Cats would have to count on someone knocking off the tourney-hungry Pokes in their two remaining games.

Wyoming has won 10 of 11 conference games to date and is fresh from a two game series with the Washington Huskies at Laramie. The Waddies dropped the first tilt 52-50 but won the second game by a 55-45 margin.

Rams Lost to Lobos

The only Skyline loss sustained by Wyoming was to the Utah State Farmers in a game at Logan early in the season. The Farmers have been particularly tough on their home court this year.

The Rams, on the other hand, have shared the name of doormat with the New Mexico Lobos. They also have the dubious distinction of losing to the Lobos, a trick not yet turned in by any other conference team.

One of their two few victories was a surprising conquest of the 'great' University of Utah Redskins in a game at Fort Collins. In Dennis Steuhm, the Rams have the leading rebounder in the conference.

NIT Bid A Possibility

The Cougars have more than just the conference title to think about as they take to the road this weekend. The Cats have a 13-8 record in season's play and a couple of wins would put them back in the tournament picture.

There is a small possibility that BYU will get an NIT bid if their record is pretty good as it is desirable to have the champs return to defend their title. They are not definitely out of the tourney picture.

In the past few years, the Cougars have become accustomed to some sort of post-season tournament. If they don't make it this season, it will be the first in five years at the least.

Four Years at Kansas City

For the last two years, the Cats have been in the NCAA, with the NIT thrown in last season. In 1948 and 1949 the Pumas were invited to the 32-team NAIB tournament, held annually in Kansas City. This is a grueling scramble in which the winners must win five straight in a week.

So, although many fans have counted off the season, the next three games can be vitally important in getting the Cougars into one kind of post-season tournament or other.

Sports Scope

Out of the Grab Bag

by Ted Johnson

Well, two more weeks and this old game of basketball will be all shot for another year, as far as the Cougars are concerned. At least I haven't heard of any tournament bids.

With the coming of spring weather to our fair campus (I don't know when, but I have faith), the ball gloves and track shoes are oiled up for another busy season. This game of baseball will be coming at us with increasing intensity right up to the first few weeks of fall quarter. I seem to remember straining my ears, trying to eke out the World Series score from some radio that was too far away during my one o'clock class last quarter.

Coach Clarence Robison and his squad of thin-clads ought to have a mighty good start this season. They have been working out in the fieldhouse for quite a while and are a whale of a ways ahead of where they were this time last year. It was rather rough trying to get in shape for the early meets while the snow and mud were still ankle deep on the track.

Ted Johnson

Coach Reed Nilsen and his squad of wrestlers have two more matches scheduled this season. One of them will be the Conference meet and the other is the national meet to be held in Fort Collins, Colo., sometime in March. Judging from past performances, these grapplers are a bunch of tough lads and they ought to do all right for themselves. After watching the matches at the Smokeless Smoker last week, I was of the opinion that a lot of these fellows can throw a half-Nelson as well as the next guy. I'd better watch who I fight with from now on.

Speaking of the 'Smokeless Smoker,' this rough-and-tumble event was, as always, supposed to have been minus the feminines. From where I sat, however, I could count more than a half dozen gals sitting in the audience. They were with their dates, but that was hardly my idea of a place to take a date. Especially after it was advertised as a strictly stag affair.

One of last year's basketball team members returned to the Y campus for the weekend and took in the BYU-New Mexico game. Russ Hillman, stalwart from the NIT championship squad, and his wife were sitting in the front row of the reserved section for the game. Russ is stationed with the armed forces in Virginia.

Two other members of last season's famous squad have continued to rack up honors for themselves in the cage game. Mel Hutchins, who is now playing pro ball with Milwaukee of the National Basketball Association, has been one of the big attractions of the Milwaukee club this year. His ball playing combines with the sparkle and zest that he shows on the hardwoods has made him a stand-out in the NBA this season.

His equally famous team-mate, Roland Minson, recently had the honor of coaching the team that won the District Six championship in the All-Church league. Minnie mentored the Provo Ninth ward who are at present playing in the mammoth all-church affair in Salt Lake City.

The basketball score predictions contest is rounding the last turn and heading for the home stretch. Only two more contests are on tab before the final championship round is held. After the weekend of the Utah-BYU game, all contestants who have been successful in winning any of the five places in prior contests will be eligible for the final contest. If a person has won more than once, he will be allowed to enter the same amount of ballots as he has been a winner in the weekly contests. This is a change in procedure since there are so many participants who are running neck-and-neck for the lead. The MacGregor windbreaker jacket from Verl and Dal at Clark's will go to the winner of the championship contest. Here are last week's winners.

1. Milo Lambert
2. Garth Richardson
3. Don Frei
4. Don LeBaron
5. Bill Farnsworth

Last week's entrants had trouble in picking the winning teams. The Wyoming-Washington game proved to be the downfall of many, while Montana's win over Denver fooled many more. Everyone who entered predicted that the Y would take the Lobos by a decisive margin. Try your hand at these games for next week.

Cook, Smith Battle For Scoring Crown

A red hot scoring battle looms up as a result of last weekend's Skyline hoop action. Utah's Glen Smith pulled up to within five points of Bert Cook of Utah State with a tremendous 35 point outburst against the New Mexico Lobos.

Cook scored 22 against Denver and raised his total to 213 points in conference play. Smith has registered 208. Cook's average stands at 17.8 to Smith's 17.3. Each has two games left.

Richey Tied for Fourth

The meeting of these two men at Logan Saturday night will be an added attraction to the Utah-Utah State game. Both teams are tied for third place in the Skyline Eight with 7-5 records.

Moe Radovich held on to third place in the scoring race and has 166 counters for a 15.1 average with three games left. Joe Richey, making a steady climb the past few weeks, moved into a fourth place tie with Larry Tuttle of New Mexico.

Cook Top Rebounder

Each has a 14.6 average. Tuttle has a total of 190 points with one tilt left, while Richey has 161 in Skyline play but has three games yet to play. The way Joe has been scoring lately he is a good bet to cop fourth among the leaders.

In the rebounding department, Bert Cook has taken over the lead as a result of 13 rebounds against Denver last weekend. He has a total of 115. Cook replaced Dennis Steuhm of Colorado A&M for the leadership. Steuhm has gathered in 106 rebounds.

Opera Production Will Continue Through Saturday

Beginning last night and continuing through Saturday is Puccini's immortal story of love in a garret, "La Boheme," presented by the Brigham Young University music department.

Principals in last night's cast included Brandt Curtis, Solomon, Ariz., and Marylin Oakey, Boise, Ida., as the young lovers, Rudolph and Mimi; Howard Putnam, Ontario, Ore., and Lou Rita Mattice, Portland. The other pair of sweethearts, Marcel and Musetta, were Jay Fowles, Oakley, Ida., as Schaunard; Gene Hansen, Provo, as Colline; Virgil Camp, Provo, as Benoit; and Don Watts, Idaho Falls, as Alcindoro. The same cast will present the Friday evening performance.

Tonight's and Saturday's cast again includes Mr. Hansen, Mr. Camp and Mr. Watts in their same roles and John Coray, Ogden, as Rudolph; Dixie Anne Mecham, Salt Lake City, as Mimi; Howard Ruff, Provo, as Marcel; Helen Squire Madsen, Provo, as Musetta; and Douglas Stott, Provo, as Schaunard.

The large and colorful chorus of the opera includes such characters as street Arabs, vendors, shop girls, mothers and children, peasant women, scavengers, and a motely crowd of tavern and cafe patrons.

Curtain time for each performance is 8:15 with the exception of tomorrow night's performance. To accommodate prom-goers, curtain time has been set at 7:30.

Tickets may be obtained at the information booth in the Joseph Smith lobby each day until 5 p.m.
